

Passwords

always make sure that you have a strong password. Never reveal your password to anyone not even friends. i would recommend using different passwords for different apps, Cause if one of your accounts is breached with the same password the can most likly geet into that account also.

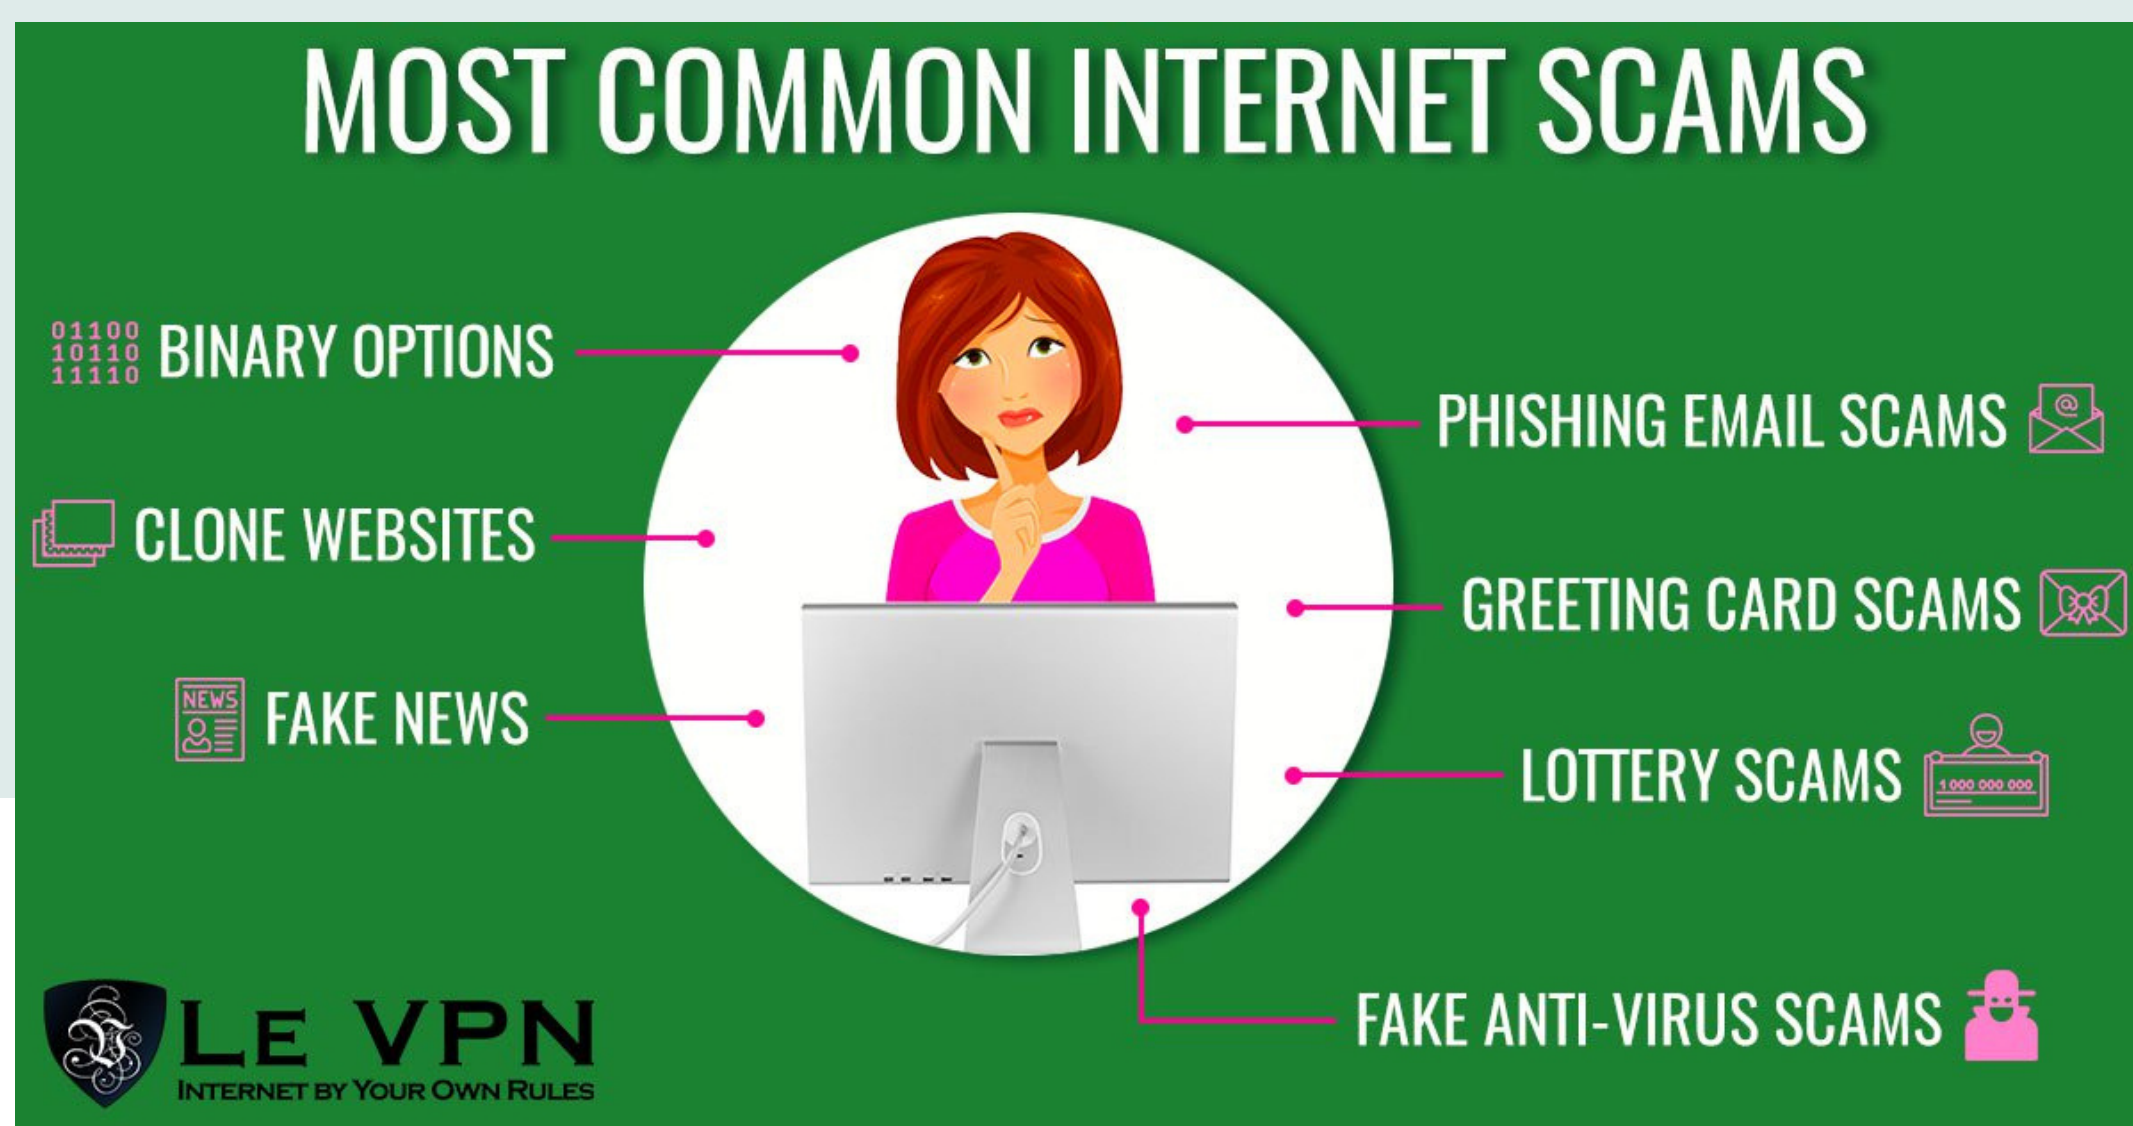

When posting

When posting on social media make sure that there is nothing revealing something super personal about you. Dont reveal your location to random people on the internet either.

Online trust

Dont trust random links to website that have been sent to you by someone you dont know. these websites can contain computer viruses. Dont trust random people trying to message you or impersonate someone you know.

Always Remember

always be nice on the internet. there are a lot of mean people on social media and just ignore them and block them.
