

Death of a Salesman by Arthur Miller

1st Memory Scene (27-34)

By Noah, Dante, and Justin

Willy's Relationships with Charlie and Bernard

The triggers from light to dark of Willy's memories

- Money is not a good subject for Willy
- Bernard or Charlie cause Willy to get angry

The truths in Willys memories

- Willys kids like him in the memory contrary to real life
- Willy encourages Biff's stealing
- Willy doesn't care much about Biffs and his academic knowledge
- Chevy isn't as good as Willy says it is

How Willy raises his children

- From the book We can see how Willy raises his children in a Patriarchal way. - Almost in the sense of toxic masculinity
- The meaning of Biff's name
- Willy pushes sons to uphold their lives in the traditional sense of a masculine
- Meaning of punching bag gift
- Interaction with Bernard